Fists Mixed with Baseball

A near riot pepped up the ball game at Oxford, Tuesday afternoon during the Pine Tree League game.

Clark Abbott, the Oxford base runner, crashed into Joe Boivin, the Rumford catcher, who was blocking the home plate.

Boivin turned quick to seize the runner, the move being interpreted by the crowd as an infighting job. The pent-up feeling existing during eight innings jumped into a riot and an untamed scene followed.

Swinging arms and fists filled the air and a regular mob scene developed around the home plate.

Peacekeepers for a time failed to quell the riot. Players and spectators from Oxford, Norway, Mechanic Falls and other towns went into the free-for-all that threatened to make battered jaws and unmanageable fists.

Umpire Johnson received a punch in the neck. Umpire McDonald's threat to award the game to Rumford had a soothing effect on the fighters. Oxford had the visitors down 3 to 1, so was in no mood to hand the contest over on a fluke.

When order was restored, the game proceeded with each team drawing blanks. Final score was 3 to 1.

Norway-Paris, 9; Mechanic Falls, 4

At Mechanic Falls, Wednesday afternoon, the Norway-Paris game was a close one. The aggregate score was 9 to 4.

Paris landed a Gene Hebert's delivery and batted out a total of 11 hits.

The teams were nip and tuck on the score book for seven innings. After that, Norway-Paris worked hard with the stick in an attack on Hebert's hand-outs.

Mechanic Falls' best drawing was blanks, while the visitors clobbered up four runs in the last two frames.
